

Synopsis for: South Dade Settlement of Cutler

By: Juan L. Riera

This article examines the postal history of the town of Cutler from the late nineteenth century through the first third of the 20th century- essentially the rise of the town to the development of the railroad that drew the population away and on to the abandoned town being acquired by Charles Deering and eventually becoming a historic site and nature preserve known as The Deering Estate at Cutler.